Stacey always loved drawing as a young girl and gravitated to beautiful colors, shapes and patterns – adhering to the underlying mantra- “the brighter the better!” Her creative flair continued into adulthood where she worked in a variety of marketing and graphics design roles, creating logos, advertisements, flyers and other promotional collateral for numerous companies and industries. Her burning desire has always been to draw, paint and create.

Today, Stacey’s stimulus emanates from both nature as evidenced in the plethora of florals and landscape scenes, and spirituality as witnessed in her signature stained-glas designs. Whether the subject matter is basic or esoteric, Stacey has the unique ability to take the simple and make it intricate with her special style. From famous metropolitan landmarks like the Eiffel Tower to quaint countryside pastures to popular icons associated with the holidays, Stacey’s bold and vibrant creations are sure to brighten everyone’s day.

Professionally speaking, Stacey considers herself lucky to have channeled her creativity into a new household product called Garbage-eez®, which was granted a patent and several trademarks. She is pushing new boundaries for its marketing and distribution, similar to her approach in sharing her stained-glass designs and artwork with the world.
